I should like to emphasize that in view of the purely humanitarian character of the Working Group's action, any information given to you in this matter is exclusively destined for the relatives of the missing person. In this connection I should like too to draw your attention to the relevant Commission on Human Rights resolution 1987/27 which requests the Group "to bear in mind the obligation to discharge its mandate with discretion, so as, inter alia, to protect persons providing information or to limit the dissemination of information provided by governments".

Yours sincerely,

Georg Mautner-Markhof
Secretary
Working Group on Enforced
or Involuntary Disappearances
